ABSTRACT

This thesis titled "Trade Liberalization Field Services According to the ASEAN Economic Community 2015 Against Employment in Indonesia" method used is the conceptual approach and statute law approach to studying the problems that exist are based on regulations in force in the State of Indonesia. The data source of this writing entirely derived from the research literature or library research on related books on ASEAN. The agreement resulted in the Bali Concord II at the Summit (Summit) ASEAN IX dated October 7, 2003 is an important moment because it is a real achievement in the process towards the integration of ASEAN, namely the establishment of the ASEAN Community that is targeted to be implemented in 2015 which aims to make ASEAN as a single market and production-based, as a competitive economic region. Particularly in the field of trade in services itself already agreed eight services to be liberalized sector and will continue to be developed. The aim of the authors study the problem of liberalization of services in this thesis is to determine the extent of the preparation and development of Indonesia faces liberarisisasi services according to the ASEAN Community in terms of Act No. 13 of 2003 on Labour in Indonesia in the face of current services competitive ASEAN Economic Community (AEC 2015).

Keywords: ASEAN Economic Community (AEC), Trade Liberalization in Services