Widow inheritance right as heir according to customary inheritance law didn't have law determination because in one side Supreme Court decide that widow is inheriting her husband property but in other side the widow is only having right to use the property leaved by husband. And according to Islam inheritance law the widow right as heir is right on sharing property, gained property, and inherited property, the widow gets 1/4 part of her husband's if there is no children and get 1/8 of the part if they have children. And according to BW inheritance law the widow right is right on per unit property and inherited property. Widow gets the same portion of her husband's property with a child portion. Widow portion in polygamy marriage is each widow gets the same portion of widow inheritance property divided by number of wives.
