ABSTRACT

This study aims to describe the implementation of environmental management and environmental cost uses to measure the environmental management performance in PT JOB Pertamina East Java. It is used as basis through comparing occurred cost, categorized based classification, and identifying hidden cost. The analysis followed with other aspects to support the evaluation. The research use qualitative method emphasized in evaluative approach. The data are collected by observation and literature study, interview and survey, and company field survey. The result is the company implemented environmental management effort already develops policy and program, adopted the government regulation. The environmental cost interpreted stable grows in a small amount, smallest amount departments proportions, highest classification cost is the prevention, and hidden cost is only small amount paid by society. The proper is blue, management representative is 87% satisfied, surrounding societies is 67% stated good and satisfied, and fieldwork survey is good.

Keyword: Company, environmental cost, environmental management, hidden cost, implementation.