

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

English as an international language is very important to learn by all people around the world. The public awareness of the importance of learning English is very high, especially in Indonesia. In fact, English has been taken as a compulsory subject in various levels of Indonesian formal education, such as at school.

During the internship as an 8th grade English teacher, the writer realized that her teaching skills acquired from English Diploma Universitas Airlangga were useful to do the tasks given to her. As an English teacher the writer not only taught the students about English, but she also needed to organize the class to get the students involved during the learning process. The writer realized that appropriate method of teaching is important to deliver the lesson effectively to the students.

Joining the internship made the writer understand that there are rules to obey and culture to preserve such as 5S culture (senyum, salam, sapa, santun, and saleh) in working environment. In addition, as a teacher, the writer should also understand about curriculum set by the ministry of education. The internship gave the writer experiences that she had never imagined before. The writer learnt about managing time, setting goal and improving her teaching ability. For example, the writer always obey the working hours of school and prepared well all the things that would be given to the students when she started to teach the class. Those were worth moments that are useful for the writer to develop her skill in her future.

Therefore, the internship program could help the writer to practice her teaching skills that she had learned in English Diploma especially in teaching major. Although in the beginning of teaching and learning process the writer was nervous enough but she felt the internship program was very useful to improve her ability in teaching before she becomes a real teacher in the formal education or informal education.
