Dear Mahesh Sawant,

Thank you very much for your kind and fast response.

Well if that's the case. The last status of my manuscript at Old JOW is under preparation for issue, in other words, I just need to wait for this article to be published, is that right?

Thank you.

Dear Mahesh Sawant,

Thank you very much for your kind response.

Attached to this email is the result of the revision regarding my article 'Scrotal Abscess due to Urethral Fistula in Spinal Cord Injured Patient with Prolonged Indwelling Urinary Catheter: A Case Report', which is scheduled for publication in a forthcoming issue of Urology Annals.

There are only a few minor notes that need to be changed, and I have already provided information directly in the proof document that was sent to me, hopefully, this will make it easier for the editor team to prepare the final version of my manuscript.

Thank you.

Dear Editor of Urology Annals,

Regarding the maintenance of the www.journalonweb.com site, I am ready to submit a revised version of my article 'Scrotal Abscess due to Urethral Fistula in Spinal Cord Injured Patient with Prolonged Indwelling Urinary Catheter: A Case Report', which is scheduled for publication in a forthcoming issue of Urology Annals.

I need more information, do I have to wait until the site is finished maintaining, or are there other alternatives to submit? because in the email notification from you beforehand, that the corrected file should be sent within 5 days.

We value your kind help to our manuscript.

Thanking you,
