Once again, thank you for submitting your manuscript to the International Journal of Managerial Finance and I look forward to receiving your revision.

Sincerely,
Co-Editor, International Journal of Managerial Finance

Reviewer(s)' Comments to Author:

Reviewer: 1

Recommendation: Minor Revision

Comments:

See attached file.

Additional Questions:

1. Originality: Does the paper contain new and significant information adequate to justify publication?: Yes.
2. Relationship to Literature: Does the paper demonstrate an adequate understanding of the relevant literature in the field and cite an appropriate range of literature sources? Is any significant work ignored?: No significant work is ignored. On the contrary, literature review is excellent.
3. Methodology: Is the paper's argument built on an appropriate base of theory, concepts, or other ideas? Has the research or equivalent intellectual work on which the paper is based been well designed? Are the methods employed appropriate?: Methodology is OK but some changes (or at least explanations) are needed.
4. Results: Are results presented clearly and analysed appropriately? Do the conclusions adequately tie together the other elements of the paper?: The presentation of results could be improved E.g., by adding econ. significance.
5. Implications for research, practice and/or society: Does the paper identify clearly any implications for research, practice and/or society? Does the paper bridge the gap between theory and practice? How can the research be used in practice (economic and commercial impact), in teaching, to influence public policy, in research (contributing to the body of knowledge)? What is the impact upon society (influencing public attitudes, affecting quality of life)? Are these implications consistent with the findings and conclusions of the paper?: Implications are OK.

6. Quality of Communication: Does the paper clearly express its case, measured against the technical language of the field and the expected knowledge of the journal's readership? Has attention been paid to the clarity of expression and readability, such as sentence structure, jargon use, acronyms, etc.: Quality of communication is OK. The paper needs to be carefully proof read.

Reviewer(s)' Comments to Author:
Reviewer: 1

Recommendation: Minor Revision

Comments:

Thank you for the opportunity to read and review your revised paper. I appreciate that you were responsive to my concerns and took steps to address most of the identified issues. I think that the paper is improved from the original version. I also have a number of concerns that I think should be addressed, listed below in the approximate order of importance (most importantly, the paper needs to be proof-read).

Minor issues

P. 3, 2nd paragraph: "Main Result" and "Robustness Test" should be in plural form.

P. 4, the last sentence in the 2nd paragraph is split across the two paragraphs.

P. 6, in 5th paragraph, the sentence "Furthermore, military personnel lack technical skills" is split as well.

P. 6, last sentence: "tend" should be instead of "tends".

P. 7, Table 1: "Final observation" should be replaced with "Final number of observations".

Pp. 9-10, Table 2: "Descriptive Statistic" should be replaced with "Descriptive Statistics" (2 instances).

P. 11, Table 3: some columns should be widened to ensure that negation sign is in front of the relevant number rather than above it.

P. 12, last paragraph: it should be "adjusted R²" not "R²".

P. 13, first paragraph: "heckman" should be replaced with "Heckman".

Pp. 15-16: The authors did not respond fully to Major comment #6 from the previous round. What are the correlations between MCON and MDISTANCE as well as between MCON and PROBCONNECT?

P. 17, first sentence: the significance levels of MCON and MDISTANCE are not described correctly.

P. 17: It seems that the authors did not fully respond to Major comment #7 from the previous round. Lai, Li, and Yang (2020) "consider firms that experience at least one instance of CEO turnover in the sample period." However, the authors include "firms that recruited ex-military for one year during the study period". Instead the authors should include firms that recruited ex-military for at least one year during the study period but less than for the entire study period (i.e., there should be at least 1 year when a firm does not employ ex-military personnel).

P. 20, second paragraph: not clear what the authors mean by "Most of their value is interrelated".

p. 32: Given that a regression include fixed effects, one does not need to report the coefficient estimate for intercept (_cons).

Additional Questions:

1. Originality: Does the paper contain new and significant information adequate to justify publication?: Yes.
2. Relationship to Literature: Does the paper demonstrate an adequate understanding of the relevant literature in the field and cite an appropriate range of literature sources? Is any significant work ignored?: Yes.
3. Methodology: Is the paper's argument built on an appropriate base of theory, concepts, or other ideas? Has the research or equivalent intellectual work on which the paper is based been well designed? Are the methods employed appropriate?: Yes.
4. Results: Are results presented clearly and analysed appropriately? Do the conclusions adequately tie together the other elements of the paper?: Some improvements should be made.
5. Implications for research, practice and/or society: Does the paper identify clearly any implications for research, practice and/or society? Does the paper bridge the gap between theory and practice? How can the research be used in practice (economic and commercial impact), in teaching, to influence public policy, in research (contributing to the body of knowledge)? What is the impact upon society (influencing public attitudes, affecting quality of life)? Are these implications consistent with the findings and conclusions of the paper?: The implications have been discussed.
6. Quality of Communication: Does the paper clearly express its case, measured against the technical language of the field and the expected knowledge of the journal's readership? Has attention been paid to the clarity of expression and readability, such as sentence structure, jargon use, acronyms, etc.: The paper needs to be proof-read.
