My Editorial Journal of Health Care Management

Dear Author,

You will see a status from edited Submission of Heading Revision. Your submission record may be closed then.

When resubmitting, please include clear your responses to the reviewer's comments. These should appear in a document uploaded separately with the revised manuscript. Ideally, your responses to reviewers' comments should include a copy of your original manuscript with all text changes displayed (displaying the changes you have made).

Thank you once again for submitting your work to our journal.

With kind regards,

Journal Editor: Journal of Health Care Management

Comments from the Editors and Reviewers

Reviewer #1
 My comment is to advise to the author to replace the present cover abstract with the study to show the official report that an article, to ensure, to have the features of an article. The title should be changed accordingly.

Reviewer #2: Revision/Comments for Changes

The abstract gives an overview of the article, description of the method and design of the study and the findings. The abstract is detailed and a bit too long. If the abstract could be shortened from 373 words to no more than 258, it would be a better presentation.

The introduction has many good quotes on Medical Tourism, however, using quote after quote does not make sense. The author should be adding variables that link these quotes together and make them to the topic of the article.

The article is very long and is written in a dissertation format. To make the article interesting and quick to read, the article should be written with the design as points to be made with the topic.

Dear Author,

Dear Author,

Reviewer #2: Revision/Comments for Changes

The abstract gives an overview of the article, description of the method and design of the study and the findings. The abstract is detailed and a bit too long. If the abstract could be shortened from 373 words to no more than 258, it would be a better presentation.

The introduction has many good quotes on Medical Tourism, however, using quote after quote does not make sense. The author should be adding variables that link these quotes together and make them to the topic of the article.

The article is very long and is written in a dissertation format. To make the article interesting and quick to read, the article should be written with the design as points to be made with the topic. Headings could reflect the points being made that relate to the research of Indonesia and Malaysia. Reconsider removing the heading of Literature Review and renaming the headings and sections related, Health Services, and Health Tourism. The article would be more interesting going into the countries called Medical Tourism in Indonesia and Medical Tourism in Malaysia following a structured introduction heading. The structured heading could be changed to the "Title" of the article.

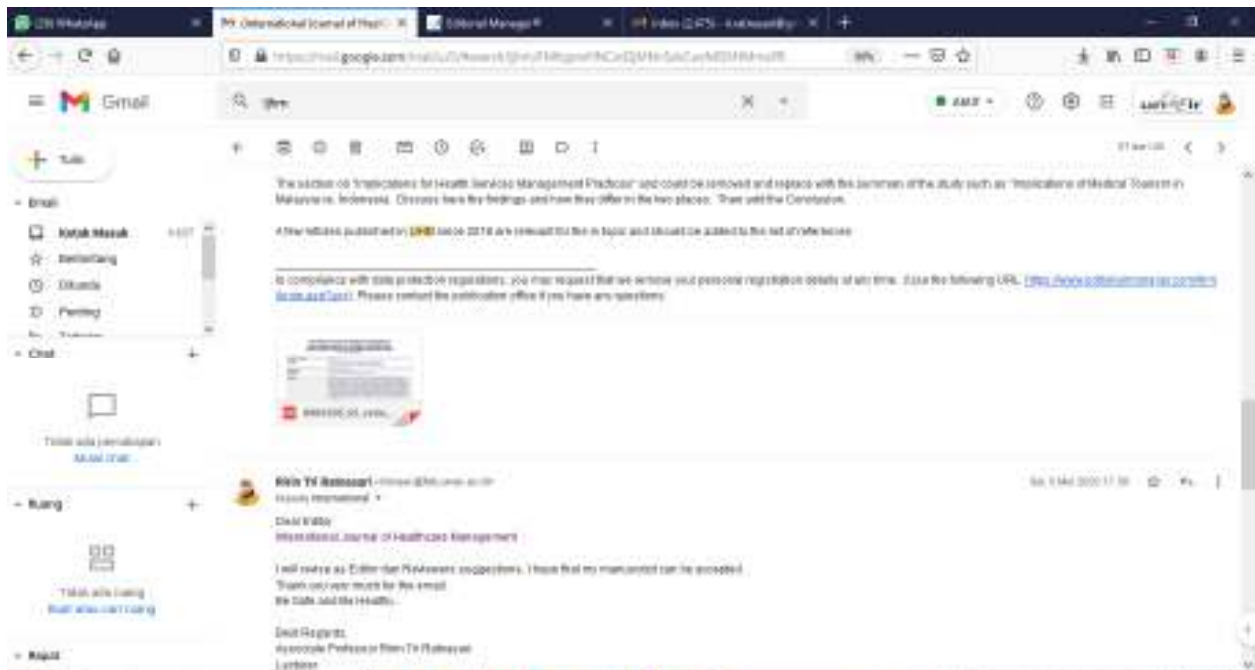

The heading of "Method" could be changed to be more interesting - such as: Healthcare Travel Study.

The Results and Discussion are too detailed for a particular article (perhaps a more interesting heading); the results could be condensed to the highlights of the findings without all the prescriptive details and the particular perceptions could be summarized to make without all the descriptive quotes from the participants. Perhaps the results could be shown in graphical form or representation with a few meaningful quotes from participants.

Identified variables could also be less descriptive and condensed into identified categories that could also be graphically presented. The figure that is presented within the article could be shortened and replaced with key findings in the findings of the study and from the article.

The article is too detailed for Health Services Management Practices and could be shortened and replace with the background of the study such as "Introduction of Medical Tourism in Malaysia is Indonesia. Discuss how the findings and how they differ in the two places. That into the Conclusion.

A few articles published in JHCM since 2019 are relevant for the topic and should be added to the list of references.

Comments from the Editors and Reviewers

The article is of interest to IJOHM However, authors should:

- 1) Authors should add to the list of references a few articles published in IJOHM from 2017 which are related to the introduction/discussion/summary of Medical and health tourism.
- 2) a more appealing title for international audience would be important.
- 3) please make keywords as to enhance the potential of the article to appear in future searches.
- 4) please revise the format of the article as to make sure it is correctly formatted to the size and the size of IJOHM as outlined at <https://www.editorialmanager.com/ijohm>
- 5) a final review of the English language by a native speaker level reviewer, would improve readability for international audience.

Please note that these are the initial reactions as required by the Editor. Once we receive the revised manuscript, the article will go through further three peer reviews. We also ask you to kindly accept being one of our expert reviewers if you didn't register yet as reviewer, please do so at your earliest convenience; we have a large number of submissions and we already expert reviewers, which implies, in some articles, long delays in the peer review process and in the full publishing period from submission to approval.

In compliance with data protection regulations, you may request that we remove your personal registration details at any time. Visit the following URL: <https://www.editorialmanager.com/ijohm>. Please contact the publisher office if you have any questions.
