Title: "Trade creation and diversion effects of ASEAN Plus Six".

Publisher: Bank Indonesia Institute

Dear Rossanto Dwi Handoyo, Ph.D, Lilik Sugiharti, Dr, Miguel Angel Esquivias Padilla, Dr,

The Bulletin of Monetary Economics and Banking (BMEB) has now reviewed your paper entitled "Trade creation and diversion effects of ASEAN Plus Six". The reviewer comments are appended below. The reviewer(s) recommend that you revise your paper. We hope that you will find the comments useful in improving the quality of your paper. It is important to note that the first reviewer has actually re-written parts of your paper and edited it. He/she has also provided comments on the margins. The second reviewer has also been kind to your paper; he/she has also made comments directly in the paper. Both papers with comments are attached. Be mindful you need to start by using the version Miguel_edited20dec2019_ss.docx to do additional work.

You must (a) clean the paper (that is first check that the changes made are acceptable, if so accept all of them), (b) make all changes with respect to reviewer comments in this version of the paper, and (c) mark all changes in colour red. You also need to prepare a rejoinder (a separate document) where below each of the reviewer comments you write how you have addressed them and where in the paper these changes appear. These are important instructions and must be followed strictly in order for us to continue considering your paper for publication in BMEB. Failure to follow instructions will either lead to a rejection of your paper or substantial delays in concluding an editorial decision on your paper.

You have 1 months to revise and resubmit your paper. I predict these changes should

You have 1 month(s) to revise and resubmit your paper. I predict these changes should not take you more than one month to complete. In fact, given you are three authors this revision should not take more than 2 weeks. Your paper resubmission due date therefore is set to February 9, 2020.
