

SYNOPSIS

The Novel Coraline is a story of a girl named Coraline. Coraline and her parent just moves into a new big house that divided into some flats. There are some neighbors who live in the house; Miss Spink and Miss Forcible, and a crazy old man whose name is Mister Bobo. All her neighbors never call her name correctly, they call her Caroline instead of Coraline.

Coraline is an energetic girl, she likes to explore her new house and environment. Coraline's disappointment comes when the weather does not support her to explore around her new house, which makes her to stay inside the house. Since Coraline's parents are always busy doing their work in the house, none of them can accompany or give attention to Coraline. Coraline decides to explore inside her new house, she also tries to count the door and window in the house. There is a door in the drawing room which attracts her. Her mother says that the door will lead to nowhere, and she prove it by unlock the door and show it to Coraline. Since the house is divided into some flats, the behind of the door must be only a wall of bricks. After Coraline feels tired from exploring her new house, at night she hopes that she will have a tight sleep. However, something bothers her, she feels like there is something invites her to open the door in the drawing room. Finally, she has courage to open the door and follows through the corridor in it. After she comes out to the edge of the door, she feels like she never moves from the first place. It is because the other side of the door is really the same as her drawing room. Coraline finds out that she gets confused with the situation. After that, she meets her mother who greets her and ask Coraline to join them in the dining room. Coraline gets more confused why her parent can be very different from the usual. Coraline parents invite her to have dinner with them. When Coraline tastes her mother's meal, it is very delicious so that it leads her into a confusion again. Later, she reveals that the situation inside the door is not really similar with her reality, and then she finds out that she is not in her real world. After Coraline figures out that she is not in her real world, she tries to find a way to comes out from her imaginary world.
