And among His signs are the creations of the heaven and the earth, and the variations in your languages and in your colours ; verily, in all these are signs for those who know.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

All praises and gratitudes be to God almighty who has helped the writer accomplish this academic task.

In writing this thesis, the writer owes indebtedness to a number of people who have encouraged, supported, advised and helped in many ways for the completion of this thesis. She is particularly grateful to Dra. Sudijah, MA whose help and good counsel have been constant and invaluable. The writer is sure that without her full collaboration this thesis would never have come to its present existence.

The writer would like to express her gratitude to Dra. Rochayah, MA, Phd who suggested that she should analyze address terms more deeply and given useful guidance, and DR. Dede Utomo for providing informations and willing to have a talk with her on the subject matters.

The writer is also indebted to all lecturers of Social and Political Sciences Faculty, Airlangga University, especially, of the English Departement who have guided her during the academic years. A special appreciation should be expressed for the generous contribution given by administrative staff members of the faculty who have provided her with the necessary materials and valuable informations for this research.

To her late father whose spirit never dies in her soul, her beloved mother who has made enormous sacrifices and always prays for her success and her brothers who have given her supports, she is forever grateful.

Special thanks to Roni, all of her friends who helped her in finishing this thesis, Ilyas Hambali who has given her supports and love. To those whose names cannot be mentioned here one by one who helped her in completing this thesis, She is greatly indebted.

The writer confesses honestly that her work is far from perfect and therefore, all constructive criticisms on this thesis should be highly appreciated.
