title: A comparison study of the 0.1% tretinoin cream and fractional microneedle radiofrequency combination with fractional CO2 laser for the treatment of striae alba in Indonesian patients. it was misunderstood. it means combination of tretinoin with radiofrequency versus F. co2 laser but material and method showed tretinoin cream versus combined radiofrequency and F co2 laser.
Introduction: you did not mention the aim of his study at end of introduction.

page 3 line 33:currently.....(Hague et al., 2017) it is an old reference not currently.

page 5 line 49 :the area to be laser is cleaned of topical anesthetic cream the language must be revised by proofreader.

The histopathological image show unexplained data like acanthosis? it was not mentioned at results or discussion.
