Table II age distribution does not tally with the abstract Line 12-13 - age group of 41-60 years

Line 16-17 – not to include normal hearing as a type of hearing loss, to rephrase the sentence

Line 18-19- Location of hearing loss was unilateral in 23.58% of patients, and bilateral in 26.83% of patients.

There is no mention of the vestibular assessment performed for all the patients and if these examinations were standardised

I suggest- 1) to include the data on diagnoses of the cases in the 'óther peripheral vertigo' group and the 'central vertigo'

2) to include any imaging or vestibular investigation performed for the patients

3) to include explanation if the hearing loss are associated with the vertigo diagnosis or separate eg presbycusis

4) to add value to the article, please describe any outline of management in patients who presented with vertigo the clinic

5) were patients with peripheral vertigo problem referred to ENT for co- management

The correction is comprehensive. It will be more beneficial if other vestibular assessments such as VNG, VHIT, VEMP, caloric test, rotatory chair test were included as these are more relevant in vertigo patients on top of the hearing assessment.
