Regarding manuscript entitled Treatment Effectivity of MSCs Cultured Under Hypoxia for Testicular Failure in Rat Based on Expression of p63, HIF2 and #945; ETV5, Count of Spermatogenic, Leydig, Sertoli Cells and Fertility Rate of Sperm, the authors aimed to evaluate the effect of hypoxic conditions in culture in vitro for MSCs would increase viability and improve success of health and fertility rescue.

Add clear hypothesis followed by clear aim at the end of introduction section.

The material and methods section must be rewritten in details. For example:

In table 3, there is an error in superscript letters of Average number of spermatosit Primer Seconder cells SD. spermatosit PrimerSeconder . spermatocyte Primary Secondary

In table 4, correct 0.4 to 4. Compare statistically between fertility rates in different groups using chi square.

The quality of figures including colors must be improved.

=> Reviewer # 2

The idea is interesting. The manuscript needs extensive English editing.

The title needs summarization to be shorter.

Editor\'s comment:

Get professional copyediting from ENAGO or Editage [keep all corrections in track changes (language as well as editorial and reviewers) and paste the certificate in the revised word file] or ask Veterinary World in answer letter for copyediting service (with extra payment) as your manuscript needs extensive copyediting.
