Dear Editor,

Thank you for your information. We are glad to hear the news but, we apologize in advance.

When we answer manuscript commentaries, we only aim to answer the questions and do not know if our answers will be published.

To be honest, we object to having to pay APC back. Can we know in advance how much APC we have to pay? Because we have some considerations and we hope the journal editorial can understand.

Thank you for the opportunity to participate.
