Comments to the Author

The manuscript entitled "Meloxicam inhibit the growth of oral squamous cell carcinoma induced by benzopyrenes" evaluated the cell proliferation and apoptotic markers. Since, cigarette smoking is one of the major sources for benzopyrene, therefore the current study needed for the present day society.

On the other side, author need to improve the language of the manuscript, hard to understand, it may be corrected by native speaker or other resources. Especially first two pages need an extensive revision.

1. Author should explain what is the rational to choose 3 different doses for Meloxicam? Is there any previous reports?
2. The duration of the total experiment and duration of after induction of benzopyrene need to be mention
3. The dilution of the primary and secondary antibodies should add in methods section
4. Author should produce photomicrographs for the evidence of IHC along with bar diagram
5. Please follow the standard methods for abbreviation I.e. grams may be denoted as g (not gr)
6. Why not authors go beyond 100 mg /kg b.w. dose?
7. What might be the possible reason for inhibition of OSCC by Meloxicam?
8. Page no 5 , Line no 34: as Mean+SD (mean+standard deviation). Correct it
9. It could be better if author added more parameters (experiment) in this study
10. If possible author should add H& E Staining of the oral tissue
