bcr-2022-249675.R2 - Tamponade with recurrent chylopericardium in patient with non-Hodgkin's lymphoma:
Chemotherapy is the key management after pericardiocentesis

Dear Dr Alsagaff:

We are pleased to accept your article for publication in BMJ Case Reports. Please change "A 42-year-old man" to "a man in his 40s".

Your article will now be sent for copyediting and typesetting. We will email you a proof to check via our online tool usually within 10-15 days of acceptance; please check your junk mail folder.

The proof is your opportunity to check for typesetting errors and the completeness and accuracy of the text; including author names and affiliations, tables and figures; including legends, numerical, mathematical, or other scientific expressions. We ask that you only make minor corrections at this stage. Please provide any comments within 48 hours. There will be no further opportunities to make corrections prior to publication.

See <https://authors.bmj.com/after-submitting/accepted/> for more information about what to expect once your article has been accepted.

If you have selected open access or colour printing (if applicable) as an optional addition for your paper, within 2-3 working days, you will receive an email with payment options and instructions from BMJ's e-commerce partner, Copyright Clearance Center. You will be able to choose either to pay by credit card or invoice. If you are not making the payment yourself, you may forward the email to the person or organisation that will be paying on your behalf. Your article will not be published by production until you have paid the article processing charge or requested an invoice. If you no longer require open access or colour printing, please let us know at bmjcases@bmj.com For more details on open access publication please visit our Author Hub: <https://authors.bmj.com/open-access/>.

Please note, that if your institution is part of one of BMJ's Publish and Read or prepay agreements your request for funding will be automatically processed based on this acceptance and you will only receive an email accepting or denying your funding request. To find out if your institution is part of a Publish and Read or prepay agreement visit BMJ's open access agreements page: <https://authors.bmj.com/open-access/institutional-programme/>.

We publish most articles online in their final form around three weeks after acceptance. See <https://authors.bmj.com/after-submitting/online-publication/> for more information about online publication. BMJ will deposit your article in all indexes affiliated with the journal.

Any final comments from the reviewer(s) are included at the foot of this email. The comments are for your information only, but in the case of minor requests (e.g. typos) these can be corrected when you receive your proof.

If your article is selected for press release by BMJ's Press Office you will be informed as soon as possible.

If you have any queries, please contact the Editorial Office at bmjcases@bmj.com.

Kind regards,
Miss Seema Biswas
Editor in Chief, BMJ Case Reports

Dear Editorial Production Assistant

We herewith attach the revised paper as per suggested. We have changed the phrase "A 42-year-old man" to "A man in his 40s" for anonymization purposes.
Thank you.

Best regards,
Alsagaff

Dear Dr. Alsagaff,

Thank you for sending the corrected files.

They have now been uploaded to ScholarOne Manuscripts on your behalf.

Kindly note as well that you will receive updates as your paper progresses in the Production in due course.

Please let me know should you need further assistance.

Best Regards,
Jamaica Rose Alcober
