Referee(s)' Comments to Author:
Referee: 1

Recommendation: Major Revision

Comments:
In the abstract section the the first sentence of the findings is not properly written. In its current style, it is like suggestion. Furthermore, findings should be rewritten in a befitting manner so that it can be the true representative.

representative.

Additional Questions:

1. Originality: Does the paper contain new and significant information adequate to justify publication?:
yes

2. Relationship to Literature: Does the paper demonstrate an adequate understanding of the relevant literature in the field and cite an appropriate range of literature sources? Is any significant work ignored?:
It seems that the gaps are not properly addressed, and how this paper will contribute to fill up the the gaps. The hypotheses are not developed properly. The author must follow the scientific procedure while developing the hypothesis.

3. Methodology: Is the paper's argument built on an appropriate base of theory, concepts, or other ideas? Has the research or equivalent intellectual work on which the paper is based been well designed? Are the methods employed appropriate?:
The statistical tests used in this study are not described properly. statistical tests with its rationality must be explained.

4. Results: Are results presented clearly and analysed appropriately? Do the conclusions adequately tie together the other elements of the paper?:
There is a huge scope to improve the section. Discussion must compare with the findings of previous empirical studies and in accordance with the underlying theory(s).

5. Implications for research, practice and/or society: Does the paper identify clearly any implications for research, practice and/or society? Does the paper bridge the gap between theory and practice? How can the research be used in practice (economic and commercial impact), in teaching, to influence public policy, in research (contributing to the body of knowledge)? What is the impact upon society (influencing public attitudes, affecting quality of life)? Are these implications consistent with the findings and conclusions of the paper?:
The recommendations for policy action must be explained clearly.

6. Quality of Communication: Does the paper clearly express its case, measured against the technical language of the field and the expected knowledge of the journal's readership? Has attention been paid to the clarity of expression and readability, such as sentence structure, jargon use, acronyms, etc.:
Acceptable. However, professional editing can improve the quality of English.

Recommendation: Minor Revision

Comments:

For better understanding to international readers, perhaps authors can consider translating the Indonesian currency to USD denominator.

For validity, the authors could explain the protocol/steps in conducting the interview and FGD.

Additional Questions:

1. Originality: Does the paper contain new and significant information adequate to justify publication?:
Yes. There are relatively few studies concerning pesantren's business community network model in Indonesia.

2. Relationship to Literature: Does the paper demonstrate an adequate understanding of the relevant literature in the field and cite an appropriate range of literature sources? Is any significant work ignored?:
Did the authors consider information from the Hebitren website?

Could the authors consider citing other case studies from the literature or similar initiatives in other ASEAN/Islamic countries as well? Or consider other literature with a similar model (community/religion-based)?

3. Methodology: Is the paper's argument built on an appropriate base of theory, concepts, or other ideas? Has the research or equivalent intellectual work on which the paper is based been well designed? Are the methods employed appropriate?: The qualitative method of interviews and FGDs conducted was unclear. It is suggested Authors could clearly define the protocol of the interview and the FGD for validity.

4. Results: Are results presented clearly and analysed appropriately? Do the conclusions adequately tie together the other elements of the paper?: Authors to change the subtitle "Hasil" to Findings, perhaps the word "Problems" can be changed to "Issues".

4. Results: Are results presented clearly and analysed appropriately? Do the conclusions adequately tie together the other elements of the paper?: Authors to change the subtitle "Hasil" to Findings, perhaps the word "Problems" can be changed to "Issues".

The authors mentioned that Hebitren managements involving Pesantres have reached 11 regions throughout Indonesia but with various degrees of advancement. However, it is unclear which Pesantrens (and in which region) fall in which degree and why this is happening?

5. Implications for research, practice and/or society: Does the paper identify clearly any implications for research, practice and/or society? Does the paper bridge the gap between theory and practice? How can the research be used in practice (economic and commercial impact), in teaching, to influence public policy, in research (contributing to the body of knowledge)? What is the impact upon society (influencing public attitudes, affecting quality of life)? Are these implications consistent with the findings and conclusions of the paper?: The authors have identified implications for future research.

6. Quality of Communication: Does the paper clearly express its case, measured against the technical language of the field and the expected knowledge of the journal's readership? Has attention been paid to the clarity of expression and readability, such as sentence structure, jargon use, acronyms, etc.: Figure 1 doesn't require the statement Source: Authors' analysis.

Where is the reference/explanation of Figure 1?
