Dear Dr Wulandari

We invite you to join our peer review community to complete a review of the following manuscript:

Manuscript title: A Perspective in Antenatal Care: a Short Emphasis on Hydration, Essential Fatty Acids and Micronutrients

Article type: Review

Author: Prof. Dr. Ramadhan Oruch

Journal: International Journal of Women's Health
<https://www.dovepress.com/international-journal-of-womens-health-journal>

Abstract: Antenatal care of women is a vital issue with regards to health promotion for forthcoming infants. This type of medical care should start before the onset of a pregnancy. Antenatal care facilitates early and continuous assessment of the potential health risks during pregnancy both for pregnant women and their fetuses. To achieve this, especially in primigravida women, a complete medical history should be recorded at the first prenatal visit. Control of chronic diseases such as diabetes, hypertension, and psychiatric ailments must be carried out. Healthy nutrition is important to re-enforce the immune system of pregnant women and thus aid their forthcoming infants to fight infection. The aim of this work was to pinpoint the significance of healthy nutrition to antenatal caregivers in different maternity stations, junior doctors at medical centers, medical and nursing students and also pregnant women per se.

Our expert reviewers greatly contribute to the high standards of the journal, and we hope that you will be willing to provide your expert assessment on this article. If you agree to review this manuscript, we would appreciate receiving your comments 10 days from accepting the invitation.
