Reviewers' and Editor's comments:

Reviewer #1: Dear authors,

Overall, I found the manuscript was an easy read. However, please kindly consider the followings to further improve the manuscript:

1. Methodology

- to add a description on each of the doses used
- to add a description on methods used to observe the change in edema volume
- to add a section on animal ethics approval

2. Results

- to perform a statistical comparisons between the doses and positive control as well
- to indicate the type of statistical analysis used below the figure
- to standardize the numbering of tables and figures (I vs 1).

3. Conclusion

- to reflect based on the main objective of the study

Reviewer #2: Tq for an interesting article. Possibly can add on how this particular ingredient was thought to have anti-inflammatory action i.e. why was it tested in this study. Can add in limitation that since this study was conducted in animal, there are many more steps before it is marketed as an analgesics for humans.

Dear Ms. Mahaletchumy
MJM Journal Manager
Malaysian Medical Association

Greetings from us.

Thanks for the fast response from MJM for our manuscript.
But, there are any correction notes that we have highlighted in the document.
Especially in the corresponding author section, the name Arifa Mustika should be written.
After this correction, we agreed to publish.
On a separate note and in the document, we have provided the abbreviated names for all the authors of this manuscript.

Thank you
