ACKNOWLEDGMENT

First of all I am really grateful to the Almighty Alloh SWT for having granted me a very wonderful and an uncountable mercy in my end of study which is full of optimism and dynamism so that I am able to finish doing my thesis well.

Specifically, I would like to thank Bapak Hariawan Adji. This thesis is impossible to be finished without his patient and careful help or guidance as my thesis advisor. His advise, suggestions, and criticism are very meaningful to maximize this thesis outside my limited skill in writing this thesis.

I would also like to thank Ibu Sudijah for having advised and helped me to find the title of this thesis and taught me how to write a bibliography. She had guided me when I did my seminar on linguistic as my first step to do this thesis.

I would like to thank my best friends, Sutadi and Hermanto, for having accompanied me nicely and helped me to finish this thesis. They both often help me to solve my thesis problem by discussing together. I would also like to thank Linda, Deni, and other English Department of Airlangga University students.

I really thank Wenny, Reza, and Agus for printing and operating the computer, to all of my respondents who were willing to answer my questionnaire and my interview, and to other people who I can not mention here.

I am also really grateful to my Dad and Mom for having brought me up well and patiently, my brothers, Mas Iwan and Hasbi, and my sister, Sevfi, for having created a very harmonious atmosphere at home.

I am also really grateful to my Dad and Mom for having brought me up well and patiently, my brothers, Mas Iwan and Hasbi, and my sister, Sevfi, for having created a very harmonious atmosphere at home.

At last I am really grateful to my dearest Pepo. She always supports me with her physical and mental help and understanding which are very meaningful for me to finish doing this thesis.

I hope this study can give a meaningful contribution to students who are interested in Javanese language study.
