

SYNOPSIS

Massie Block believes her life is perfect until her father's college friend moves into their guesthouse with his family. In addition, they live there while they are searching for a new home. The Lyons moves from Orlando, Florida, to Westchester, New York. When Claire and Massie meet, Massie is always rude to her. The next day is the first day of seventh grade for Claire, Massie, and Massie's clique. First is Dylan Marvil, who gets obsessed with weight and perfect looking since her mother is a famous actress. Second is Alicia Rivera, the sneakiest girl in the clique, and she also the richest and the most beautiful person in the clique. Alicia quietly wants to take over Massie's power someday, just might. Massie's last best friend is Kristen Gregory. She is the smartest person in the clique, a very hard worker person and rude to other people. However, Kristen has a big secret that she kept from her best friends because she was embarrassed with her real condition. Kristen's parents went bankrupt since her family is deceit by their own friends, but she never tells the truth to her own bestfriends.

Four of them are best friends from a very long time, and they goes at the same school. OCD or Octavian County Day is a private school, expensive and famous in town, and this clique is the most famous people on school. Massie always drives her friends to school with them, and of course, Claire is dumped in the backseat. The school day does not get much better when Alicia on purpose dumps red paint on Claire's pants on the art class. Moreover, Massie's friends are mean to her because Massie does not like her, so they all treat her cruelly. Claire does not know how to fit in with all the other girls there. Until she met Layne, a loner and infamous girl in OCD. Layne is the only person who accepts Claire as they way she is. However, even when Claire has already find a new friend, Massie cannot stop makes Claire have a very hard time at school. Claire tries to go through it anyways, and fit in as much as she can, so she can be the next Massie Block. Or at least try to be as close as that. If she keeps wearing those white sneakers and her own clothes, she will never fit in, and will always be the outsider.

Even thought Claire already has a good friend, she still trying so hard to be a part of that clique. Nevertheless, tired using a good way to be accepted by surrounding, especially Massie and her clique, Claire starts to use a 'backway' to arrogate this clique. Began from a coincidence, Claire is hijacking Massie's IM and starts to talk with Massie's friends. Claire is slowly succeeding to pit against Massie and her best friends. Massie's friends finally decided to become a 'buddy-buddy' with Claire. Not so long after that, she will finally be popular and fit in; the dream she has always wished for. It seems like dream comes true for Claire.

Claire gets many advantages by making friends with the clique. Alicia, buy an expensive dress and give it to Claire using her five credit cards. Meanwhile, Massie are getting confused why her best friends ditch her for a girl like Claire. Even though Massie already get new friends, she is still missing her old best friends a lot. Therefore, Massie tried to find out why her best friends leave her. In the end, Massie finally realize that Claire is hijacking her IM and trying to stealing her friends. Realize that Claire is trying to separate her and her best friends; they arrange a sweet revenge for Claire. After pushing Claire to confess her 'trick', Massie and her clique try to make Claire's life more miserable than before. However, Claire finally understands that everyone has their own lifestyle and she does not need to be like Massie and her clique to be happy as an individual.

Meanwhile, Massie and her clique are in the school project to help Kristen making her own Cosmetics Company. They make a lip-gloss named Glambition, and want to sell it in their school trip. They use peanut as their main material. On the school trip, they sell the lip-gloss to their classmates and it sold out. Soon after their classmates use the lip-gloss, at least 10 girls are screaming because their lips are burning. Massie and her clique never realized that peanut is the most common allergic for many people. However, the commotion in the bus is over since Claire gives Layne's oatmeal to the girls who have burning lips after Claire get a mysterious text in her cell phone.

Every year, Massie's family held an auction to collect money for scholarship in OCD. Everyone in town is coming. The party goes well until Massie's father and Claire's father are drunk and calling their daughter, Massie and Claire, to sing with their fathers on the stage. Both Massie and Claire finally realize that actually they need each other and trying to help their own 'enemy' so they would apart from the embarrassing moment because of their fathers. This incident open their eyes that they actually like and need each other. Since that, both Massie and Claire try to accept each other as the way they were.
