ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First of all I would like to thank God for all the mercy and strength given so that I am, at least, able to finish this thesis. It has been so long and so hard for me in getting this thesis done.

The next, I have got to thank my very patient thesis advisor, Dra. Siti Eko Widjajati, MS, for her time, attention, and outstanding patience in guiding me to finish this thesis. I would like to appreciate all the lecturers of Faculty Letters Airlangga University as well, especially those of English Department, for having given me valuable knowledge. And for all the staffs of the faculty, I only have very much gratitude for their supporting contributions to the education activities in the faculty. To all my friends in the faculty, especially English Department students of '98, I should give my deepest thanks for the good and bad times spent together. I am so grateful to my parents for their sincere love, patience, understanding, and support given all the time. For those great things they have been giving me, I can only give them my promise to try to not let them down and to pray for God's mercy for them.

Eventually, I do realize that there are a lot of improvements needed in this thesis. Therefore any critic and suggestion will be gratefully accepted. Hopefully, this thesis will be a useful knowledge to students, mainly those of English Department.
