ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, I am grateful to Allah S.W.T. for giving me strength and guidance so I could handle many obstacles. My biggest appreciation goes to my thesis advisor, Deny Arnos Kwary, Ph.D. Without his inspiring advice and thoughtful feedback, I would never have been able to complete this thesis. To all lecturers of English Department, I respectfully thank you for the knowledge and learning experiences you have given to me. This thesis is also dedicated to my dearest parents. Your daily question of when I would be graduated has become my biggest motivation to finish this thesis as soon as possible. Thank you a lot for always taking care of me and praying for me. I will never stop loving you two.

I would also like to thank Theresia C.R.P for helping me collecting the data and Amelia P. for being proof listener. To Dinda B.N.A., Restya A.W., Inke Y.S., and Amillatulaila S., thank you for being best partners in every lecture we took together. My gratitude also belongs to the rest students in AJ Class of 2013 for being good classmates to struggle with during the most hectic year when we had to face 30 credits each semester called matriculation. It is proven that we are so strong. My deepest gratitude goes to the most beautiful and cheerful classmate, Mega F.R. You were like an angel. You must be an awesome angel up there. I would also like to say thanks to my big family members as well as high school and college friends whose names I cannot mention one by one. Thank you for the love and the laugh.
