

ABSTRACT

A political party is an important instrument for democracy . Party plays the role of a strategic link between the processes of government to citizens . Even political parties are actually determines democracy . As a pillar of democracy , the party is a very important institution for amplified degree of institutionalization .

Not escape PKNU in factual verification participating in the election year 2014 will be of interest given a large enough base NU . Departing from the PKNU failure , try to see the internal institutionalization PKNU . Here is a selected PKNU PKNU East Java , East Java which has a mass base PKNU Nahdliyin strong enough .

Relying on this, this study aims to determine the degree of political institutionalization PDIP . In this study , the authors use the Java PKNU DPD stands for the party in the region as research object . In assessing the degree of political institutionalization PKNU East Java , the author uses four parameters namely ( 1 ) the degree of systemic ( 2 ) the degree of identity value ( 3 ) the degree of autonomy ( 4 ) the degree of knowledge or public image .

This study uses qualitative interview method against the political elite and the general public PKNU Java . This interview was conducted on elite deemed competent to answer the question in this research . As for measuring the degree of public knowledge on Java PKNU , researchers also conducted interviews with the people who are eligible , those who have had the right to vote in elections with diverse professional backgrounds .

The results showed that the political institutionalization PKNU Java is still the degree of institutionalization that is . This conclusion is drawn from the assessment of the results of research on each of the parameters used . This condition occurs due to the dominant portion taken Mustasyar Council and Shura Council in determining any political decision .

Key words : the institutionalization of political parties , PKNU East Java , Factual Verification