

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

During the internship in SMP Khadijah as an English teacher, the writer gained a lot of knowledge in teaching English to junior high school students and prepared the subjects before teaching activity. The writer felt happy because he had a chance to teach junior high school students as it was the first time for him to teach junior high school students in a formal situation. Teaching in a formal situation is different from in an informal situation. In the formal situation, the writer or the teacher must make a lesson plan before he starts to teach in the class.

Being a teacher, the writer obtained many experiences and advantages. The writer had learned how to make a lesson plan correctly as in the 2013 curriculum, how to prepare the subjects, how to start the class, and how to make an assessment for the students' assignments. The writer also learned some different characteristics of the students in a class. In this case, the writer had to be able to manage the class properly and maintained discipline. Thus, the teacher had to move from one spot to another rather than sitting at the desk to monitor the students.

Moreover, the writer could also practice all the teaching skills that he had learned in English Diploma. The writer felt it was very useful and helpful. Having an internship in SMP Khadijah is good for the writer before he becomes a real teacher in the school.

The writer realized to be a teacher is not as easy as he thought. There are many works even when the teachers are not in school. There are a lot of works that a teacher should do at home too. The writer believes that this experience could make him a good teacher someday.

In writer's opinion, SMP Khadijah is an appropriate school for the students of English Diploma for doing the internship to practice the lesson that they have learned in the university.
