Comments to the author

Reviewer 2: Overall the topic is good but the paper needs further improvements. Some important comments and suggestions are listed below:

1. The paper is missing recent and relevant literature. For example, Sukmadilaga, Mohamad, and Shah (2014), Eforis (2018), Astami, Tower, Rusmin, and Neilson (2010), Apriliyanti and Kristiansen (2019), Harymawan, Nasih, Madyan, and Sucahyati (2019), Aminuddin (2019), etc.

2. The theoretical and literature support for the hypothesis is not sufficient.

3. Indonesia has different types of state-owned enterprises (SOEs) such as Perusahaan Umum, Perusahaan Perseroan Terbuka, and Perusahaan Perseroan Pemerintah. The study does not provide details about the different types of the SOEs and what types of SOEs are used in the study?

4. The main objective of the study is to investigate the influence of general election on the accounting performance of the state-owned-enterprises (SOE). The results for this objective are shown in table 6 (page 13). The coefficients of election-1 and election-2 and their interaction terms with SOE are insignificant that means the elections do not influence the performance significantly. However, the author argues the significant impact of the election period on accounting performance.

5. The paper should be proofread in order to improve the overall quality of the language and the readability of the manuscript.

Comments to the author

Reviewer 4: 1-The methodology section needs to be explained in detail. There is no explanation about the choice of the econometric model. The methodology section should be explained under separate heading and not to be merged with the definitions of the variables. Both should be explained separately.

2- The connection between CEOs "connected to political position" and firm performance is the main argument of the paper. However, the proxy for this is not very appropriate. Either some other variable should be used or the literature review should be elaborated to present arguments for using election year as a proxy for politically connected CEOs of the firms.

3- Since, the paper is specifically related to Indonesia, perhaps a background section of the Indonesian industry sector with a focus on political appointments and the selection criteria of CEO's of the SOE can be added to put things in perspective for the reader.

4- The explanations of the regression results are very superficial. They must be explained in detail, possibly by comparing with existing studies.

5- The paper needs to be properly proofread and edited for proper language and syntax. The flow of the paper needs to be improved especially in the Abstract.

6- The conclusion needs to be elaborated. It should explain why the results of this paper are important. Briefly, summarize the test results and then provide some future direction of research.

7- Please also think about revising the title to a concise one, which reflects the subject of the paper in a more meaningful way.
